

If Oil Prices Continue to Soar...

Contributed by Marc Courtenay
Saturday, 08 March 2008

Now that oil has gone as high as $106-per-barrel there has been some innovative thinking about alternative energy and new ways to power our many forms of modern transportation. There has to be some imagination in order to create fuel and energy sources that can pull, push and soar in natural and age-old ways.

A friend passed this on...good for a few weekend chuckles...